RESPONSE TO COVID-19

The COVID-19 crisis amplified the systems of oppression present in our communities long before the pandemic. College Possible believes that access to equitable education is one pillar to ending the effects of systemic injustices that have persisted for generations.

Early in the nationwide school shutdown, we quickly adjusted our approach to virtual program delivery. We proudly provided continuous support to all students, despite the untraditional end to the school year.

Leverage existing tech-connected expertise and systems. Our support of college students and students outside of the Milwaukee area has always had a tech-connected approach. In March, coaches were able to share their learnings, approaches, and best practices with those shifting to a virtual environment for the first time.

Strength of a national organization. We have been able to lean on the additional capacity provided by our national team. In the spring, they took the lead to adjust curriculum and develop new trainings for our AmeriCorps members to support virtual programs.

Lessons learned from the spring. We acknowledge the need to center care on our students' whole selves and well-being. Coaches are prioritizing one-on-one coaching with options for students for group engagement sessions.

“A huge reason I was successful in college was because of College Possible. As a person of color, who is from the inner city of Milwaukee, college sounded intimidating. You remind us we belong just like everyone else -- so again -- thank you. What you are doing is working, and I am forever thankful to be a College Possible Milwaukee alumna.”
